The Whisky Frauds—A New Lead.

CHICAGO May 26.—Major Bluford Wilson, solicitor of the treasury department, arrived in this city from Washington yesterday, and will remain three or four days for the purpose of giving legal advice to Government officials who are investigating the whisky frauds.

Many discrepancies have been found whereby the Government has been swindled. Officials have recently struck a new lead and intend examining the books of all railroad companies leading from Chicago, for the purpose of learning the quantity of high wines and spirits they have carried away with in the last four months. The books of the Lake Shore railroad company and Star line already have been looked into, and information criminating several wholesale dealers has been accumulated. When the U S grand jury meets it is probable two thirds or three-fourths of the wholesale liquor dealers of this city will be indicted for defrauding the government.

A Tribune's Washington special says an examination of stubs of gaugers books from one Chicago house furnishes an illustration of the methods pursued to defraud the Government. The contents of a certain number of packages sent from one Chicago house to New York, according to the stamp were 67,000 gallons, but when the stubs were examined they covered only 10,000 gallons, showing a steal in whole of 57,000 gallons. Comparison of stamps on another package of illicit whisky showed where a single stamp according to the stub covered only 60 gallons while the stamp in reality covered 80 gallons.

Receiver Appointed for the Erie Railroad.

Powers of the Receiver of the Erie Road.

NEW YORK May 26.—Mr Jewett, who has been appointed receiver of the Erie railroad, is to assume the duties as soon as he shall have filed bonds in the sum of $500,000. The order of the court requires him at once to file an inventory of all the property of the road, empowers him to run it as well as to prosecute and defend suits at law when the same shall be necessary, to pay salaries, to borrow money to redeem pledged securities and do all things necessary for the proper prosecution of the business of the road. Mr Jewett from being president as president, becomes master of the situation as receiver. By forcing matters he can bring the trunk lines to terms and end the railroad war. One of the officials said the new state of affairs would not affect the traffic of the company unless there should be a strike. In regard to the meeting on next Saturday and proposition to raise money to meet the June interest Jewett said he doubted that harmonious action could be secured.

NEW YORK, May 26.—S. L. M. Barlow, Homer Ramsdell and C D Morgan became sureties for Jewett, as receiver, each justifying in a half million dollars.

Gov. Hartranft Renominated.

LANCASTER, Pa, May 26.—At the Republican State Convention to-day, Governor Hartranft was nominated by acclamation and H. W. Rawle, mayor of Erie, was nominated for state treasurer.

Platform of the Pennsylvania Republicans.

The following declaration of principles was adopted:

First—Equality of all men before the law, equal justice to all and special favors to none.

Second—Harmony of the national and State governments. Both are parts of one system alike necessary for the common prosperity, peace and security.

Third—Unity of the nation. We are one people—the constitution of the United States forms a government, not a league.

Fourth—The faithful execution of the laws, an economical administration of government, integrity in office, honesty in all branches of the civil service, and rigid accountability of public officers.

Fifth—Protection to home industry and a home market for home products.

Sixth—The right of laborers to protection and encouragement and the promotion of harmony between labor and capital.

Seventh—Cheap transportation and closer intercourse between all parts of the country.

Eighth—Free banking, a safe and uniform national currency, adjusted to the growing wants of the business interests of the country, and a steady reduction of the national debt.

Ninth—The public domain being the heritage of the people should be reserved for actual settlers exclusively.

Tenth—Equalization of bounties to soldiers and a speedy settlement of all just claims arising out of the late war.

Eleventh—Honest men in office, men with brains enough to know dishonesty when they see it and courage enough to fight it wherever they meet it.

The first resolution is as follows:

Resolved, That we declare a firm and unqualified adherence to the unwritten law of the republic which wisely and under sanction of the most venerable of examples limits the presidential service of any citizen to two terms and we, Republicans of Pennsylvania, in recognition of this law, are unalterably opposed to the election to the Presidency of any person for a third term. The committee resolutions endorse the administration of President Grant as among the most brilliant achievements in the annals of the country, eulogize Governor Hartranft for the able manner in which he has discharged every duty incumbent upon him and present his name for re-election, suggests a thorough investigation by an able and experienced commission of the whole subject of the municipal taxation in order to protect the people as well from existing maladministration as to prevent its recurrence, arraign the Democratic party for dishonoring the State by unseemly and arbitrary exercise of legislative power, and heartily approve the efforts of government to bring to punishment defrauders of the revenue.

Terrible Explosion—Drug-store Demolished and Many Persons Killed.

BOSTON, May 26.—This evening a terrific explosion occurred in J. D Dow's drug store on Washington street at a late hour. Nothing definite is known as to the cause. The wildest rumors are current. At the time of the explosion there were known to be about 20 persons in the building, all of whom were more or less seriously injured. The first intimation of the disaster was a deep rumbling sound similar to the report of an earthquake. Almost simultaneously the walls of the building burst outward in every direction, falling in one confused mass and presented a scene of wreck seldom before witnessed and more complete than any building blown up by gunpowder during the great fire. The building at once took fire. Two dead bodies were taken out and three others extricated and sent to the city hospital. The estimated loss to Dow's building will reach $40,000. The terrific explosion and general shaking of adjoining buildings will probably bring the losses up to $100,000.

WASHINGTON CITY.

The Indian Delegation Call on the President.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—The Sioux Indian delegation called to-day on the President by appointment, accompanied by Gen. Cowan, Acting Secretary of the Interior, and Commissioner of Indian Affairs Smith and were received by the President in his private office. As the Indians entered each advanced to the President and, being presented by the interpreter, shook hands with him. The Indians then arranged themselves around the table, Spotted Tail and Red Cloud having prominent positions. Large numbers of ladies and gentlemen were present, including Gov. Pennington of Dakota, Gov. Thayer of Wyoming, ex-Gov. McCook of Arizona and Senator Hamilton of Texas. The President then through Wm Fulder, interpreter, addressed the Indians as follows: I want to say to the Indians to-day something about the object of bringing them here and a few words for them to reply to at present. I have always been a friend to the Indian and am very anxious to do what I think best for their good. The country where they now live, as they must be well aware, is entirely incapable of supporting them should the Government cease giving them aid. By the treaty of 1868 clothing was granted to them for 30 years. The food and provisions therefore which have been given them the last two years has been gratuitous on the part of Congress. These may be taken from them at any time without any violation of the treaty. My interest now is to make some arrangement by which they and their children will be secure from future distress. [Several Indians expressed their approval of these sentiments by exclaiming "Ugh!"] As I said in the beginning it must be evident to them if the supplies of food be withdrawn by the Government it will be impossible for them to live where they are. Another thing I would call their attention to is this: They must see that the white people outnumber the Indians, taking all the Indians within the Territory owned by the United States. The number of whites is increasing so rapidly that before many years it will be impossible to fix any point within the limit of our territory where you can prevent their going. It will become necessary that the white people shall go from one place to another whether occupied by Indians or not, the same as they go from one State to another. For this reason it is a very desirable thing that they have friends here to look after their interest. They should be situated where they would be able to get support beyond any contingency. I do not propose to ask them without their consent to leave their homes where they were born and raised but to point out to them the advantage to themselves and their children if they will accept such arrangements as may be proposed to them. There is territory south of where they now live where the climate is much better, where grass is much better and game more abundant, including large game, such as buffalo, where there is good pasture for animals and where teachers can be sent among the Indians to instruct them in the arts of civilization, self-preservation and support. This year we have had great difficulty in keeping the white people from going to the Black Hills in search of gold but so far have prevented them. Every year the same difficulty will be encountered until the right of the white people to go to that country is granted by the Indians and there will be trouble between the white people and Indians without any special fault on either side. Should such trouble occur and become general it would necessarily lead to the withholding for a time at least of the supplies the government has been giving them. All this trouble I wish to avoid. I want to see them well provided for in such a way that the arrangements will have to be respected by my successors and other administrations for the future. I want the Indians to think of what I have said. I don't want them to say anything to-day. I want them to talk among themselves and be prepared to hear from the secretary of the interior and commissioner of Indian affairs who are authorized to speak for me, and will be governed by my advice. This is all I want to say to them.

After a brief conversation between the President and Rev Mr Hinman, the President turned to the Indians and said through the interpreter, "Say to them what I have said to them will be written and they will have the words interpreted."

Spotted Tail advanced toward the President and looking toward the representatives of the press who were talking and made a short explanation to the published statements to the effect that the Indians had stigmatized the secretary of the interior and commissioner of Indian affairs as liars. He said such charges were not made by him and who ever put them in the papers made them up themselves as he did not call his strongest friends liars. The Indians then withdrew, evidently disappointed in not having an opportunity to reply to the President. They were in full costume with a plentiful supply of paint and feathers.

Use of the Mails Denied to Lottery Schemers

WASHINGTON, May 26.—J. D. S[illegible] through his attorneys sent a letter to the post office department demurring to the action of the department in refusing to allow the use of the mail for his lottery schemes. His attorneys ask for the law under which the action is taken that they may bring the subject before the courts and test the constitutionality of the law. [illegible] in the action of the department [illegible] confiscates the private property of individuals which is in conflict with the constitution and rights of persons.

A Decision of the Secretary of the Treasury Submitted to the Attorney General.

The secretary of the Treasury, in view of the protests received from Chicago, Milwaukee, Cincinnati and St. Louis against the decision of the department under the revised statutes that the voyage of importation terminates on arrival within the limits of a port of entry with intent to unload and against its action resulting as a consequence of the decision, [illegible] a low rate at interior ports upon a constructive voyage of importation terminating at interior ports, has submitted to the Attorney General the following questions:

First—Whether the act of July 14 1870 relating to immediate transportation in bond abrogates the distinction previously existing between ports on the seaboard and interior ports so as to recognize or allow continuous voyage of importation terminating at such interior ports and attaching to merchandise thus imported the privileges as well as well as liabilities formerly confined to importation at seaboard ports.

Second—Whether the act of July 1870 abrogated the distinction previously existing between allowance for damage incurred in voyage of importation and that incurred by fire or other casualty while in transit under bond.

Third—Whether merchandise imported at New York prior to the passage of the act of March 15, but arriving under immediate transportation [illegible] will [illegible] the [illegible] port of [illegible] subsequently to that date is subject to the provided [illegible] that act.

Postal Matters

WASHINGTON, May 26.—A number of Congressmen [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] General [illegible] is to use his [illegible] to have the present law governing [illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible] newspapers [illegible] as to be more just and equitable.

Fraudulent Mail Contracts Annulled.

The Postmaster General has issued an order annulling all contracts made with M. V. Nicholls for carrying on his [illegible] six routes in Minnesota and twenty four routes in Iowa. The order recites that when the contracts were made they were supposed to be without taint of fraud, but it has been ascertained they were fraudulent and did not have the true and bona fide certificate of a postmaster of approval of bonds, as they falsely appeared to have, and it is ordered that they be cancelled and be awarded to next lowest bidder.

THE TILTON-BEECHER TRIAL

NEW YORK, May 26.—In the Beecher case this morning Porter resumed his argument for defence. He said the first object of Tilton and Moulton was to reinstate the former on the Independent. That failed and the Golden Age was established and the friends of Beecher were asked to contribute the sum of money needed to keep the paper afloat and the Golden Age article was prepared. It brought not only money but in the larger sense of Tilton it brought spoil and in the meantime $7,000 had been got from Henry Ward Beecher for Bessie Turner's school bills and $5,000 for the support of Tilton's family for which latter sum Beecher had to mortgage his house. The Bacon letter had then been published containing a garbled edition of the letter of apology. It was put forth to the world and Beecher thought it called for investigation, but Moulton said that it would be a breach of faith and yet these men were the parties who published the Bacon letter and letter of apology. Were these men to advise silence, it was a policy to be observed by Beecher and broken by Tilton and Moulton. If Beecher was guilty and had debauched one of his own communicants, if he had confessed to Tilton, Moulton and Mrs Moulton, if he had authorized Moulton to tell Judge Morris and Judge Tracy or any person, why did Beecher refuse to sign the card prepared for him by Tilton and to be read in his own pulpit? Porter commenting on the testimony of Mrs Moulton said her words were poisoned not by herself but by her husband. It had been suggested by Beecher's enemies that counsel had dealt discourteously with her husband as a blackmailer, but he would leave it to the jury. They had heard the severity with which Morris had spoken of his (Porter's) client, but they would yet hear deadlier and polished eloquence of his learned friend who had yet to speak to them on the other side. Counsel then reverted to Mrs Moulton's testimony in which she urged Beecher to go down to the church that he could never appear in the pulpit with this on his mind and Beecher replied that she seemed to him like a section of the day of judgment. Was this latter expression like Beecher? No, it was framed by the same lips as "paroxysmal kiss" and "brink of a moral Niagara." It was the expression of Tilton, for Beecher never thought of putting the day of judgment into sections. There is a thread of truth through the whole narrative. There were conversations between her and Beecher. The virus of these conversations lies in transferring them from one period to another in substitution for harmless and innocent words. Like crime, words like guilt. This you will remember on her part is mere question of memory. It is true there were conversations between them but no one saw all as another saw it, nor can any two persons give the same account of anything that has occurred at which both were present. Few would report even the conversations at length after it had taken place. No two commanders gave the same account of a battle at which both were. Counsel dwelt on the difficulty of remembering and repeating a conversation occurring several years ago and the liability of persons even of well intentions to make mistakes in attempting to repeat such conversations. There were several features in regard to Mrs Moulton's testimony. First she was the zealous friend of the defendant until some time in July 1874 when Tilton and Moulton communicated with Beecher through Redpath. We had the fact that early in June 1874 these two slippery rogues Tilton and Moulton contemplated proceedings in the courts against Beecher and were conferring as to what and who would be required in the case. He must be permitted to say, however, that the witness who swore that which was not true was to be fully relieved from censure though she did it from the force of conjugal love. She could not swerve from her allegiance to her husband. This husband calculated that his lady to bring the apostle of free love to confer with Tilton and Moulton. It might be true that Mrs. Moulton was misled by her husband and Tilton. He left it to the jury to say whether Mrs. Moulton's testimony outweighed that of H. W. Beecher. He had hoped to be able to present to the jury the contradictions of her testimony but he had not time. Referring again to Moulton he said there were seventeen honest men who had sworn falsely, if all that he had testified to was true. If all that Tilton said against his pastor was true there were thirty four men of worth and esteem who had all sworn falsely. Counsel then referred to the attempts made to throw discredit on the character of Tracy and said he thought he acted justly. He thought he was right in taking a retainer of Beecher after these men had broken faith with him. If there was any error on Tracy's part it was due to the counsels of Evarts and other lawyers associated with him.

The Conclusion.

He then concluded his speech by congratulating the jury on their patience during the hearing of the case and the court on its uniform kindness and with expressions of his firm belief that no such verdict as that asked for by Judge Morris would be rendered, but that the verdict would be such a one as would gladden many hearts and send an electric thrill of joy throughout Christendom. The conclusion of his speech was greeted with applause from the spectators.

The foreman of the jury announced that one of the jury was too ill to appear this afternoon and court adjourned till to-morrow.

A Montana paper of the 8th inst says: We have had a dash of Oregon weather this week—leaden skies with some of the smaller plugs out. A good soaking rain would meet with general approval by the Patrons of Husbandry and other unorganized sojourners in this vale of steers.

Two brothers whose ages are respectively 9 and 37, whose names are William and Chas Wilson, and who were born in Buffalo, N. A correspondent of the Bellingham Mail says that the Lidalgo farmers have their crops all in and the early sown grain is growing finely. There has been an increased acreage of new land brought under cultivation this spring and a larger breadth of land planted to potatoes than in any former season. The prospect for an abundant crop of fruit is good.

The San Francisco Stock Report of the 7th inst in its mining review gives the following as the number of shares in each of the Idaho mines: Empire, 25,000; Golden Chariot, 90,000; Ida Ellmore, 50,000; Illinois Central, 50,000; Mahogany, 25,000; Pauper, 16,000; Poorman, 50,000; Silver Cord, 24,000; South Chariot, 50,000; Virtue, 20,000; War Eagle, 10,000; Red Jacket, 20,000.

The Boise Statesman of last Saturday says: Mr Austin Savage, internal revenue assessor of this place, under instructions from the revenue department, filed a complaint yesterday before James Stout, United States commissioner, charging T. Marshal Joe Pinkham and Geer was found and arrested a little before 12 o'clock noon.

From the neighborhood known as Canada in Linn county, a correspondent writes to the Lebanon [illegible]: Our crop prospect was never better at this season of the year. Canada is all aglow over the prospect of the bridge across the South Santiam or this south portion at least. The bridge will be completed by the first of December next, near Lebanon. We have been very much isolated from our flourishing little county seat (Albany) for at least six months in the year by this rapid tossing, splashing South Santiam hurrying to mix its pure, clear waters with the rolling Pacific. I am proud to see our people engaged in such a grand enterprise. It has given new life and tone to our entire neighborhood.

LETTER FROM SALEM

THE PENITENTIARY CONSPIRACY—PRELIMINARY THE SAME [illegible] BOUND—BASE BALL [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] AND PICNICS—A YOUNG MAN FOUND DEAD IN THE FIELD—DIVERS AND SUNDRY

SALEM, May 26, 18[illegible]

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The preliminary examination of Arthur Cox charged with smuggling arms and ammunition into the Oregon State Penitentiary closed yesterday afternoon and resulted in binding the young man over to appear before the grand jury which meets in about two weeks. His bonds were fixed at $500, sureties for which were promptly given and he is now at liberty. Public opinion which at first was very strong against him has veered around considerably in his favor since the trial commenced, owing to the testimony being of a mere circumstantial nature, nothing positive being introduced which would show him really guilty. This much Squire Johnson acknowledged when deciding the case, but as a crime had evidently been committed he felt himself called upon to give the matter into the hands of the grand jury for further consideration. This movement was the more reasonable inasmuch as the jury would sit within so short a time. There is considerable feeling manifested against Watkinds at the present time, the public sentiment being much in favor of the defendant. A full exposé of the case and preceding circumstances would reveal the fact that there was a strong prejudice against Cox by a certain few who, for obvious reasons, were desirous that he should serve a few years in that model institution wherein it is claimed he endeavored to bring about a revolt. Perhaps some time in the future we may more thoroughly ventilate the case.

BASEBALL [illegible]

The College Juniors send, by to-day's mail, challenge to the Willamette Baseball Club of Albany to play the first game of a series for the championship in that city on Saturday next. There is some good material in the former club, as no doubt there is in the Willamettes and a rattling game is anticipated.

EXERCISES OF THE COLLEGE SOCIETIES

The Alka and Athenean literary societies of the Willamette University will give a joint exhibition in the chapel, Friday evening. The reputation of the institution warrants us in saying it will prove a rich literary and musical treat.

ACADEMY PICNIC.

The students of the Academy of the Sacred Heart are picnicking at Aurora to-day, where it is generally understood they were met by the students of St. Mary's college of your city. Miss Alice Bell was elected Queen of the May.

MARION SQUARE TO BE IMPROVED

Under the efficient exertions of O A Brown, the private subscriptions circulated for the purpose of raising funds for fitting up Marion square as a place of public resort, amounts to very nearly the required amount ($300). As soon as it is all collected a force of men will be put at work and a general renovation will take place in that locality.

PERSONAL AND NEWSPAPERIAL.

Calvin B MacDonald, editor-in-chief of the Salem Statesman, is visiting Eastern Oregon, and as he wields a ready and descriptive quill, we anticipate some very readable letters from that quarter ere long. During his absence the paper is very ably conducted by E. O. Norton, assisted by J. W. Reddington and a corps of excellent correspondents.

Private advices from Wilbur F Cornell, the well known and popular print, divulge the fact that he is ruralizing in the vicinity of Jacksonville.

Happy Jerry Coldwell has accepted a position in the Mercury composing room. He says there's no place like Salem. There must be some extraordinary attraction up here.

A YOUNG MAN FOUND DEAD IN HIS FATHER'S FIELD

R. C. Ramsby, the Silverton stage-driver, brings this morning the intelligence of the mysterious disappearance and death of Harvey G., youngest son of Hon. David Newsom, of Howell Prairie. He left home two or three days ago, but having disappeared in like manner on several former occasions, nothing was thought of it. An older brother this morning in roaming through the fields was horrified to find his lifeless form lying on the ground but a short distance from the house. It is feared he was kicked by some of the horses, as he had been in the habit of endeavoring to throw them by pulling their legs from under them, he being a young man of extraordinary strength. He was about 21 years of age, a man of exemplary habits, highly respected by all who knew him. No further particulars at hand at this early hour. The bereaved family have the sympathy of a large circle of friends in their affliction.

A PUT UP JOB

What ails the Oregon weather clerk? He must have been bribed by outside parties to bring about such cold disagreeable days as he is favoring us with this spring. Why it would almost do justice to States east of the Mississippi. A job has been put up on us.

WIDE AWAKE.

THE MOLALLA COUNTRY

CANBY, May 24, 1875.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

If I could say a word that would be of benefit to any emigrant or other person who desires information regarding this section of Oregon I should be glad to do so through your columns.

The Molalla country contains some of the oldest farms in the State and some good ones, too. Though most of the prairie land is now in cultivation yet there are thousands of acres of oak and hazel land as good as any in the State, unimproved, which could be had cheap; and those who have estimated the cost of clearing such land, say it will pay much better than going up the valley and buying prairie land at $30 or $40 per acre. Convenience to market would soon pay for clearing the land, and it would cost less when cleared than the prairie land, as excellent land can be had here for from $4 to $5 per acre. I have oak land which has raised four crops of wheat in succession and the fourth crop yielded 15 bushels per acre, and I think will do as well this year the fifth crop. So it can readily be seen that one crop will pay for the land and clearing of the same if only the land is cultivated.

From my place to the railroad (Canby station) is three miles; from there to the mountains about twelve miles. Then there is a settlement three or four miles back on the hills called Russellville settlement. The land is good for orchard grass or grain. This settlement is near Wilhoit's soda springs, a famous resort. Yet there are thousands of acres of good lands vacant near those springs. Still farther on eight miles Mr M C Dimick and Mr George Wingfield have taken up ranches. They have a world of range for their stock. The land is good and there is little snow—much less than in the Eastern States—and stock will not require feed more than two months. The scenery from this point is very grand, the locality healthful and game abundant. Not far from this point is lime rock, coal, silver and gold quartz, etc. For the verification of the above call on

The road across the Blue Mountains is said to be getting in very good condition considering the season of the year. The snow has been gone some days, and the mud is fast drying up, so that in a few more days the road will be in fine order.

The Jacksonville papers are much more quiet about Galice creek mines than they were.

STIFLED IN MID-AIR

STORY OF THE FRENCH BALLOON ZENITH

TWO AERONAUTS SUFFOCATED ABOVE THE CLOUDS—THE SURVIVOR'S EXPERIENCE

[Correspondence of the New York Times]

PARIS, April 19.—We were all dreadfully shocked on Friday evening to hear that a fatal accident had happened to the Zenith. Half an hour after I had closed my last letter, a dispatch arrived which said that the balloon had fallen in the Province of Berry and that the aeronauts were dead. It was at first supposed that they had been killed by the fall, but the latest evening papers published a telegram from Gaston Tissandier, the only survivor, which stated that his two unfortunate companions had died from suffocation. In their efforts to rival Glaisher and Coxwell, they had gone to an altitude of 8,000 meters, and had found an atmosphere that would not sustain life. Tissandier is a pale blonde, slight, thin and wiry, rather weak in appearance and seemingly incapable of great endurance, while his two companions were robust young men.

THE FATAL EXPEDITION

Some two months ago I noted an ascension of the same balloon, and stated that it had been chartered for scientific purposes. In that instance some excellent results were obtained. The Zenith came down safely in the Landes, near the Pyrenees, and the aeronauts showed so much intelligence and scientific knowledge that it was resolved to send them upon a more important expedition. This time they were to test the atmosphere at the highest possible altitude, make experiments for carbonic acid, and bring down tubes of air for analysis, experiment with the spectroscope, and test the effect of the air upon themselves at different heights. There were many minor points of inquiry that will readily suggest themselves, but the most important, perhaps, were those regarding the spectroscope. It is known that this instrument shows the presence of atmospheric vapor, and scientific men desire to know how far this is due to the atmosphere of the earth, or how far it may be modified by carrying the spectroscope to regions where it is extremely rarefied. On Thursday evening the Zenith started off under the best conditions. The balloon had been specially prepared for this ascension, and had on board the most perfect instruments that could be made. The aeronauts were Capt. Sivel, M. Croce Spinelli and Gaston Tissandier, all men of great experience in ballooning and who devoted themselves, heart and soul, to the work. M. Sivel was formerly a sailor, but during the siege was selected as a courageous man, capable of giving great assistance to the aeronaut who went out of Paris with a balloon. He thus got a taste for ballooning, and began to study science, making himself a useful and accomplished man in three years' time. He was thirty eight years of age, and had made two or three voyages around the world, twice as captain of a merchant vessel. When the war broke out he hastened home to his country to offer his services, and while in Paris was selected as pilot upon one of these balloons. Since then he has made many ascensions and was regarded as the best aeronaut alive. To all inquiries made at the office of the company, the invariable response was, "There is no danger, Sivel is with them." He was a widower, but had a little girl five years of age whom he called to the basket and kissed for the last time a second before giving the order to "let go." M. Croce-Spinelli was only thirty five years of age and a strong and hearty young man. He was much attached to his profession, and has written several works upon balloons and ballooning. He was unmarried, but had an aged father dependent upon him for support. Gaston Tissandier, the survivor, is the eldest of two brothers who have long been known as intrepid aeronauts. He is thirty-eight or forty years of age, the eldest of the party, though the smallest and frailest of the three. He is a clever writer, and is chief editor of a paper called La Nature, devoted to natural science. These were the three men who went up in the Zenith in the interests of science and of whom only one has returned alive. I saw the balloon as it passed over the city and paused for some time to regard it. The silk being yellow, it shone like a ball of silver in the sunlight. But it rose rapidly and in a few minutes had become a small speck in the distant skies.

M. TISSANDIER'S STORY.

From this point I will let M. Gustavo Tissandier tell his own story. In a letter addressed to the President of the Aerial Navigation Society he says:

CIRON (Indre), 18th April.—Monsieur, a telegram sent officially will have informed you of the sad misfortune which has befallen us. Sivel and Croce-Spinelli are no more. They succumbed to asphyxia in the high regions of the air to which we had ascended. I will relate to you what I know of this sad drama, for, during two consecutive hours, I was in a state of complete unconsciousness.

The ascension from the gas works at La Villette was accomplished favorably. At 1 o'clock in the afternoon we were already at more than 5,000 yards of altitude (pressure 460). We had passed air into the potassium tubes, felt our pulses, measured the interior temperature of the balloon, which was more than 20 C (68 Fahr.), while the exterior was less than 5 C (41 Fahr.). Sivel had trimmed the car, Croce had used his spectroscope, and we were all in high spirits.

Sivel threw out ballast, and we ascended, breathing oxygen, which produced an excellent effect.

At 1h. 20m. the barometer marked 320 mm.; we were over 7,000 yards high, and the temperature was less than 10 C (50 Fahr.). My companions were pale, I felt weak, but I inhaled a little of the gas, which somewhat revived me. We still ascended. Sivel turned to ward me and said: "We have a large quantity of ballast, shall I throw some out?" I replied, "Do as you please." He put the same question to our friend, who nodded energetically in token of approval. We had five sacks with us, each weighing twenty five kilos, and at least four more were hung outside the car.

Sivel took his knife and successively cut three cords. The bags were emptied, and we mounted rapidly. All at once I found myself so feeble that I could not even turn my head to look at my companions, who, I believe, were seated. I desired to obtain the oxygen tube, but could not lift my arm, but my mind was still quite lucid. I had my eyes on the barometer, and I saw the needle pass over the figure of pressure 290 mm., then 280, which it went beyond. I wanted to exclaim, "We are 8,000 yards!" but my tongue seemed paralyzed. All at once my eyes closed and I fell inert, entirely losing all recollection. The time was then about 1.30.

At 1.52 I revived for a moment. The balloon was descending rapidly. I was able to cut a sack of ballast to slacken the speed, and to write on my register the following lines, which I copy:

"We are descending. Temperature 8 C (17 Fahrenheit). I am throwing out ballast. Elevation [illegible]. Sivel and Croce still insensible at the bottom of the car. Descending very rapidly."

I had scarcely written these lines when a sort of trembling fit seized me and I sank down fainting for the second time. I was conscious of a violent wind indicating a very rapid descent. A few moments later I felt myself shaken by the arms and recognized Croce, who had revived. "Throw out ballast," said he; "we are going down." But I could hardly open my eyes and I did not notice whether Sivel was aroused. I remember that Croce unfastened the aspirator and threw it out as well as some ballast, extra wraps and the like. All this is an extremely confused recollection, which was quickly extinguished, for I relapsed into insensibility more thoroughly than before, and I felt as if I was going off into an eternal slumber. What happened then? I suppose that the balloon, being lightened, impermeable as it was and very warm, shot up once more into the upper regions. At about 3.15 o'clock I reopened my eyes, feeling giddy and weak, but my consciousness returned. The balloon was rushing down with frightful velocity.

The car swayed violently from side to side and described great oscillations. I raised myself on my knees and pulled my companions by the arm. "Sivel! Croce!" I cried, "rouse yourselves!" They were both crouched down in the car with their heads concealed in their cloaks. I summoned up all my strength, and endeavored to lift them up. Sivel's face was black, his eyes dull, mouth wide open and full of blood. Croce Spinelli had his eyes closed, and his mouth blood stained also.

To relate what occurred then is quite beyond my power. I noticed a tremendous wind from below upward. We were still at an altitude of 6,000 metres. There were still in the car two bags of ballast, which I cast out. Soon we neared the earth; and I sought for my knife, in order to cut the attachment of the anchor, but I could not find it.

I was distracted, and kept calling out "Sivel! Sivel!" Fortunately I laid my hand on my knife, and was enabled to free the grapnel in time. The shock of the fall was extremely violent. The balloon appeared to flatten itself out completely, and I thought it would so remain. But there was a strong wind which carried it along. The grapnel did not hold firmly, and the car was dragged across the fields. The dead bodies of my unfortunate friends were jerked about, and I feared that they would fall out of the car. Meanwhile I succeeded in grasping the cord of the valve and the balloon was quickly emptied, and was finally exhausted against a tree. This was about 4 o'clock.

On getting out of the car, I was attacked by a feverish excitement of the most violent kind, and very soon fell exhausted, and became livid. I thought that I was about rejoin my companions in the next world.

Nevertheless, I gradually recovered my senses. I examined my poor comrades, and found them cold and stiff. I had their corpses transported to the shelter of a neighboring farm. I sobbed to suffocation, and even yet have not recovered.

I have been feverish all the night. I have not yet been able to eat anything whatever, and feel consequently very weak. I salute you.

GASTON TISSANDIER.

THE RETURN TO EARTH.

The balloon descended to the ground in the main road, and gave an enormous bound across the river. A young gentleman, M. De Beauregard, was driving along at the moment, and seeing that his services were needed, he turned at once and gave chase to the balloon. The Zenith struck in an elm upon the farm of M. Legros and M. De Beauregard assisted Tissandier in freeing himself. As there was no way of getting the balloon down without destroying it, the farmer came to the aid of the aeronaut and sacrificed one of his finest elms, thus by a promptly generous act making himself famous throughout the whole country. The prefect gave the requisite order for sending the bodies of Sivel and Croce to Paris in lead coffins. Tissandier himself brought on the test barometers last night. The note books of the unfortunate men were found in the car. At the height of 7,500 meters, Croce wrote:

"Slight pains. Feeling of dullness in the ears, the effects of the gas [oxygen that he inhaled]. Thick forest beneath us. Still somewhat oppressed. The sun is splendid above us. Although—"

The memorandum stops here, the writer being unable to proceed. In the first part of the book he had written down minute directions as to the management of the balloon—how to raise so many yards, and what to do in case of sudden emergency.

TEACHINGS OF THE VOYAGE.

It is too soon to inquire fully into the scientific value of this voyage, but something has been gained in return for the loss of two lives. Nearly every science has its martyrs, and that of aerostation must add two to its list. But this accident is unique in our records. We have had accidents from ballooning, but it is the first time that men have died from suffocation in a balloon at a great height. Perhaps many of my readers may recall the ascension of Glaisher and Coxwell in 1862. Glaisher claimed to have gone up 11,000 yards, which would be about 9,878 metres, a metre being 39 371-1000 English inches, or very nearly 39⅜ inches. In the present case we have the certainty that the Zenith went about 8,000 metres, for M. Tissandier saw the barometer at 280 before closing his eyes, and as Sivel then threw over several sacks of ballast, the balloon may have shot up suddenly to over 9,000 metres. This was the height designated by Glaisher as the limit of his endurance, and he then lost consciousness. Coxwell was in the circle trying to open the safety valve, but found himself failing and his hands growing useless. He dropped down into the car, and tried to seize the rope to open the valve, but could not raise his right arm. He tried the left with no better success, and then the happy idea struck him to seize the rope with his teeth and let off some gas. The balloon rapidly descended until it reached an atmosphere which brought Glaisher to consciousness. But the statement of Glaisher that he went up 11,000 English yards must be taken with some reserve. In his time there were no test barometers which measure exactly the highest altitude attained, and he himself acknowledged that he was not in a state of mind to examine his instruments with sufficient precision. Nine thousand metres must be regarded, I think, as the extreme limit at which life can be sustained. In order to give a supply of oxygen, an apparatus for inhaling it was taken up, and it strengthened the aeronauts on more than one occasion, but a moment came when they were powerless to raise a hand even to take hold of the respirator. Sivel did so, and inhaled large doses of oxygen, and appears to have become excited unduly thereby. The balloon was then falling at a fearful rate, and Tissandier was alarmed, calling loudly upon Sivel. The latter roused himself, seized the respirator, inhaled considerable oxygen, then began to cut away the ballast, each containing eight pounds of sand. "Shall we go up?" said Tissandier. Sivel, exhilarated by the oxygen, turned to Croce-Spinelli, who nodded assent, being unable to speak, and went on cutting down the bags of sand. "Yes," he cried, gayly, "and happy the one of us that returns!" He not only threw away the respirator, not knowing what he was doing, probably, but threw overboard blankets, and the boxes that contained some of their instruments. The balloon, relieved of a weight of at least 108 pounds, must have shot up again like a rocket, and may have gone beyond 9,000 metres. Tissandier again fainted, and this suspension of animation saved his life. The stronger men, Croce and Sivel, went on breathing an atmosphere containing no oxygen, until they were suffocated. When the balloon had descended to 6,000 metres Tissandier came to himself to find his companions dead, and the Zenith falling like a stone. He looked over the side when hardly able to raise his head, and the sight of the earth approaching so rapidly brought him to his senses. He saw that he must relieve the balloon of more weight or be dashed in pieces on the ground. Fortunately, a few sacks of ballast had escaped Sivel's hand, and, on cutting these the balloon was temporarily relieved. Its giddy course was checked for a moment, and when it came into a dense atmosphere, came down easily to the ground, the only danger then being from a high wind.

THE PARTY ORGANS DOING THE HONORABLE.

The Albany, N. Y., Journal, which at first condemned in very strong terms the action of the Conservatives of the Louisiana House of Representatives in unseating the four illegally seated Republican members, becoming satisfied, from a perusal of Mr. Wheeler's letter on the subject, that its position was wrong, proceeds at once to do justice in the premises by a full and complete retraction. After remarking that of all men Mr. Wheeler ought to be considered the best authority on the subject, both on account of his part in effecting the compromise and by reason of "his sound judgment and high sense of honor," the Journal says:

> In this matter we are glad to find that we were mistaken, and glad to acquit the Louisiana Conservatives of the charge of disregarding the compromise and trampling upon good faith. Mr. Wheeler gives some facts in support of this conclusion which were not known to the general public. He says that Mr. Leonard and other Conservatives distinctly stated in advance that they denied the title of the four Republicans and would unseat them. This relieves them from the imputation of concealing their design and resorting to a trick the moment they had the power. In short, Mr. Wheeler's authoritative statement of the facts puts another face upon the matter, and we welcome it both as a conclusive determination of the controversy, and as an assurance of continued good faith. The whole country hailed the compromise as the happy adjustment of a vexatious difficulty, and it will receive with equal gratification the assurance that its fears of the overthrow of the good work are unfounded.
> Besides showing that the compromise has not been violated, Mr. Wheeler makes some very just and timely observations on the more general Southern question. He urges that we need to exercise patience, forbearance and justice. We cannot expect to emerge from the difficulties inseparably connected with the situation without friction and disturbance. The South is not up to the standard of the North. Her people are not trained as ours are. They have not the same respect for the majesty of law. If it would be preposterous in the very nature of the case to claim that everything is peaceable and lovely where such conditions exist, it is equally true that the obligation rests upon us to enforce the justice we exact.

By this honorable course the Journal has done far more for its party—for it is one of the papers that stick closest to the Republican organization—than it could do by any amount of ingenious hairsplitting to make it appear that the Conservatives were in fault. And at the same time its candor is a valuable example to other party journals.

Apropos of this subject it is in place to add that the Worcester (Mass.) Spy, another Republican organ, is authority for the statement that Mr. Hoar of the Louisiana committee, though not so intimately connected with the compromise as Mr. Wheeler, fully concurs in the view of the latter that the Conservatives were in no way bound by the terms of the settlement to allow the Republicans who held seats illegally to remain as members of the House.

FURTHER DISCOVERIES OF THE "CROOKED."

The visit of Solicitor Wilson to the West seems likely to be productive of great results in the prosecution of the investigations into the "crooked" whisky business. The new lead which, according to this morning's telegrams, has been struck, promises to be a very rich lead. The discovery of frauds perpetrated on the scale of about 30 per cent. of the total amount of transactions in liquors, by a single device, in addition to the frauds heretofore detected, affords ground for the inference that there is very little whisky—east of the Rocky mountains at least—that is not "crooked." Mr. Wilson has made Chicago his first point of attack, doubtless supposing that to be the place where the most extensive frauds are committed; but he is to go through other western cities. At a cabinet meeting held on the 18th instant to consider the subject of the liquor frauds, it was agreed that he should go west, visiting Chicago, St. Louis, Detroit, Milwaukee, Louisville, Evansville, and such other places as might be found proper, and give his personal attention to the prosecution of the swindles. Secretary Bristow at the same time turned over the matter to Attorney General Pierrepont, who it is understood will take personal supervision of the prosecutions.

Wilson was selected to take immediate charge of these prosecutions, on the ground that he is the most fit man that could be found, being a man of great industry and perseverance, and nerve enough for any possible emergency. It looks as if almost the entire liquor traffic of the country would be involved in the war.

THE PRESIDENT'S SPEECH TO THE CHIEFS.

President Grant's speech to the Sioux chiefs, which is given in this morning's telegrams, amounts to this: "I wish the Indians well, and shall be extremely sorry to have to chaw them up; but if they refuse to accept the terms which the Secretary of the Interior is about to propose, for the giving up of the Black Hills to the whites, it will be the painful duty of my government to make wolf bait of the whole tribe." This is probably about the only style of argument which these representatives of savage nobility could appreciate, and it might as well be presented to them at once. For it is beyond the power of President Grant, or any other President that may come, peaceably to restrain the people from going into the Black Hills in search for gold, and for the purpose of working the mines should any be found. The red man may as well know at once that the alternative presented to him is, "surrender or rub out;" for to that complexion will it come at last.

THE OVERLAND MONTHLY.—The June number of the Overland Monthly, closing the fourteenth volume of that popular magazine, is well filled with interesting matter. The Pacific coast flavor is not quite so strong in this as in some of the preceding numbers, and we cannot say that the change is matter for regret. We would have our Pacific coast magazine distinctively characteristic, but we on this coast are not so much a separate people from the rest of the English speaking world as to make an entirely distinct literature indispensable to our development and culture. It is enough if the peculiarities of our manners and habits of thought appear as a feature of our literature, leaving the literature itself good, quiet English, or, at most, American English. There is always a possibility of pushing the idea of a fresh style to such lengths that the discriminating reader will feel inclined to put the adjective in quotation marks—"fresh." The article in the present number of the Overland which is likely to attract most attention is a really fine contribution by John Muir entitled "Flood-storm in the Sierra;" but we like better "The Aim of Poetry," by J. Royce. The fiction and poetry of the magazine are of the very best, from the best contributors.

A most horrible crime was lately committed by a Vienna tailor, who had got into pecuniary straits through dissipation. Having first bolted his wife out of the house, he enticed each of his five children, the youngest about eight months old, into a dark room, where he hung them up with cords upon nails. Then he hung himself. The bodies were found soon afterwards, the father and four children dead. The other child, the eldest, being able to rest his foot on the floor sufficiently to prevent complete strangulation, was still alive, though almost beyond the possibility of restoration.

The Leavenworth Commercial states that Senator Ingalls of that State recently met with a pecuniary disaster so serious and far reaching as to almost reduce him to poverty. We get the information that he went security for a brother, who was in the boot and shoe business in a leading Southern city, and was held responsible for a sum exceeding $50,000. He has assigned all his Atchison property for the payment of the debt, pledged his salary as United States senator for one year in advance, and is still held for $25,000.

A Jersey paper, annoyed by the darkness of the streets, indignantly asks: "What are street lamps for?" To which the Northwestern Herald replies: "The man who doesn't know what a street lamp is for is hardly fit to sit in an editorial chair and mould public opinion. Street lamps are for weary young men to recline against at midnight, when they forget the way home."

A malicious scoundrel says the St. Joe editors wear their boots two sizes larger than their feet in order not to crowd the snakes.

A VOICE FROM POLK.

INDEPENDENCE, May 25, 1875.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

It is amusing to see the wriggling and squirming of the party organs in view of the approaching campaign, precipitated by the death of the Hon. Geo. A. LaDow. Either party can make it as plain as two and two make five that no Independent ticket ought to be put in nomination. The effect will be, it is said, to defeat the Republicans, and give the Democrats a victory, which they could not gain without the Independents; or to defeat the Democrats and give the Republicans a victory which they could gain only through the aid of the Independents.

And then, what a forgiving spirit they manifest toward their erring brethren, who went into the Independent movement! They will receive them back into full fellowship without even a confession of their sins! Meanwhile, the Independents of this vicinity feel the utmost confidence that they and their friends will elect the next Congressman. The old story of twenty-two counties, in only nine of which the Independent move was known, will not win in the coming contest. The result of the late election in those nine is premonitory of what will happen when the twenty-two wheel into line. This is the view of the case which is leading to all this whining and begging Independents not to make a nomination. They see the handwriting on the wall, and, instead of manfully throwing up the sponge, they go down on their marrow-bones, and with hands up, implore the Independents to spare them the mortification of defeat. What are Independents but the toiling, laboring masses who have become oppressed and disgusted with the machinations and triumphs of corrupt politicians, to whom a party is a necessity? These tricksters against whom we Independents war are not willing to work; to beg they are ashamed; besides it is much easier to steal, if it can be done under the garb of official business. It seems, to all such, a great outrage that the people who make the money by the sweat of their brow should determine to act independently of professed politicians, and select from their own number the men whom they would have serve them.

The approaching campaign is most opportune, since it will give the Independents opportunity to complete their organization, test their strength, and enter upon the campaign of '76 in a shape that will insure full and complete success. Let the watch word be given: Independent voting is the only guarantee of the purity and permanency of a free government. It will touch a responsive chord in the breast of every honest son of toil, and the ranks of the Independents will be swelled to an overwhelming majority. When the time comes for action, the farmers and mechanics will have an eye to their own interest, regardless of the fawning and fuddling of politicians, or the party lash of the bold.

AUTOPTIS.

SENATOR BOOTH'S WORK.

The San Francisco Call says of Senator Booth's great reception speech in that city:

> Whether or not Mr. Booth's speech shall lead to his sacrifice as a public man, his influence for the time will be in the interests of good government. With a third party in the field, basing their claims to support on the character of its nominees for office, the other two parties will be compelled to make acceptable nominations. It will no longer be a choice between two evils. Republicans can support such of their own men as possess the necessary qualifications, and vote against bad men without assisting to elect a man but little preferable belonging to the opposite party. The same line of action will be open to Democrats. The main object of the mass of voters is honest government. The rapid increase of the rate of taxation warns property-holders that they must pay more attention to local politics. The schemers who seek to enrich themselves at the expense of the people must be crushed. In this good and necessary work, Senator Booth is in a position to do excellent service.

MARRIED:

and plated with gold, and, when worn much in vogue. The style of the cap is characteristic, and is similar to the one by the police force of New York. O front of the cap worn by the chief or ca gold, with the rank of the officer in letters across the center. On those wo

LIGHT DRAUGHT BOATS.—Perhaps the est light draught steamboat that has cleaved the waters of the upper or lower is now being constructed in the dry-do the Oregon City basin by the Oregon s ship company. Joseph Paquet is the tractor and builder. The work is pushed vigorously, and the new craft w afloat in a few weeks. This craft is 15 long; has a beam of 36 feet at the botto the keel, reaching from 15 feet aft of th to the stern; hold, 4½ feet. She will b capacity of about 500 tons. The craft signed expressly for carrying freight, a being constructed with an eye with referen that object. When finished, and with al machinery on board, the boat will not to exceed 10 inches of water. Her exce light draught will enable her to ascend highest navigable point on the upper

Albany will be used on this boat.

HUGE GOLD BAR.—One of the larges consequently most valuable gold bricks brought to this city was on exhibition yest

Baker City, having been taken from the

SLIGHT COLLISION.—A slight collision

THURSDAY MORNING, MAY 27, 1875.

BADGES, CAPS AND BELTS.—Chief Lappeus received on the last steamer, from John J. Tower, manufacturer of police equipments, New York, four police badges, three caps and two belts, which are to be worn by the chief and the two captains connected with the force—Brannan and Colline. The badges consist of a raised shield of handsome design and surmounted by an eagle with outstretched pinions. This badge is designed to take the place of the star. Just below the image of the "bold bird of liberty" the word "Chief," or "Captain," as the case may be, is engraved, and at the lower end of the shield the word "Police" is cut in raised letters. The badge is made of alloy gold plated with gold, and, when worn on the breast, presents a much more handsome appearance than the ordinary star which is so much in vogue. The style of the cap is quite characteristic, and is similar to the one worn by the police force of New York. On the front of the cap worn by the chief or captains is a crescent-shaped wreath, made of bronze gold, with the rank of the officer in metallic letters across the center. On those worn by the privates the number of the officer is marked on the front, partially surrounded with a silver bronze wreath. The belts which came are of fine material and neat workmanship. At one side of the belt is hung a short leather socket for the receptacle of the indispensable "billy," when it is not necessary for the officer to carry it in his hand. On the buckle in front the word "Police" is worked in large letters. With a neat uniform these accessories are sufficient to make the average M. P. present a "way up" appearance. They are decidedly "nifty," we can assure you.

LIGHT DRAUGHT BOATS.—Perhaps the largest light draught steamboat that has ever cleaved the waters of the upper or lower river is now being constructed in the dry-dock at the Oregon City basin by the Oregon steamship company. Joseph Paquet is the contractor and builder. The work is being pushed vigorously, and the new craft will be afloat in a few weeks. This craft is 150 feet long, has a beam of 30 feet at the bottom of the keel, reaching from 15 feet aft of the bow to the stern; hold, 4½ feet. She will have a capacity of about 500 tons. The craft is designed expressly for carrying freight, and is being constructed with special reference to that object. When finished, and with all the machinery on board, the boat will not draw to exceed 10 inches of water. Her exceeding light draught will enable her to ascend to the highest navigable point on the upper Wallamet—Eugene City. The machinery long used on the Alert, will be overhauled and employed in driving the new steamer. On or before the first of July, the new boat will be ready to make the trial trip. In addition to this boat, the company propose to build another steamer at the basin this season. The second boat will be for the Yamhill river trade and is intended to be like her larger sister, of light draft. Work on the second boat is not to be commenced for some time, as her services will not be required until early in the fall. The boiler and machinery of the old Fannie will be used on this boat.

HUGE GOLD BAR.—One of the largest and consequently most valuable gold bricks ever brought to this city was on exhibition yesterday at the store of Millard & VanSchuyver, on Front street. The brick was brought down from Baker City, having been taken from the Virtue lode, near that place. This huge chunk of precious metal was the result of seventeen days' run by the Virtue Mining Company, which will serve to indicate the extreme richness of the lode. Pause, gentle reader, and ponder while you read. This brick weighs forty-five pounds avoirdupois, or 508 14-100 ounces troy weight. Its fineness is 903, and its value $9,485 29. In size it is but a fraction smaller than an ordinary clay brick. It was kept under a glass case, and during the day was the center of general attraction. To gaze on that solid mass of auriferous metal was quite enough to make the eyes water and the palms itch, of even the most stolid. We were allowed to handle the brick, and never in all our extended reportorial career were we seized with such a desire to slip the bonanza in our left vest pocket and run for life. Had it not been for the strict surveillance of the gentleman who was kindly looking after the welfare of the brick, we might possibly never have framed this paragraph. The brick is on its way to the Mint at San Francisco, and is soon to be transformed into bright twenty-dollar pieces.

LIST OF JURORS.—The following list of jurors to serve at the June term of the State circuit court, was drawn yesterday by the county clerk: L. W. Wallace, bookkeeper; Frank Hacheney, grocer; D. F. Buxton, farmer; H. J. McIntyre, farmer; T. J. Robinson, saloon keeper; Wm. Kapus, bookkeeper; T. J. Cottle, farmer; Jackson Powell, farmer; R. Price, farmer; Curtis W. Elkins, farmer; Jno. Moore, farmer; Wm. Kerns, farmer; C. P. Bacon, stable keeper; W. B. Doublehower, mechanic; Thomas Stephens, contractor; John Wilson, merchant; P. C. Schuyler, druggist; W. Meeker, farmer; George a Craw, bookkeeper; David Cole, fisher; James Steel, cashier; J. S. Dickinson, farmer; Theodore Wygant, accountant; A. J. Watson, speculator; P. J. Mann, farmer; Edward Croft, machinist; C. S. Schenck, speculator (?); George B. Cook, hotel keeper; C. H. Wiberg, farmer; George H. Jones, carpenter; E. B. Knapp, merchant.

BAPTIST SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.—A Baptist Sunday school convention will be held in Portland on Tuesday and Wednesday, June 22d and 23d, 1875, to which delegates from all Sunday schools in Oregon and Washington Territory are invited. Arrangements have been made with the different routes to convey all delegates for fare one way. It is expected that a large company of delegates to the Willamette Baptist Association, held at The Dalles, June 25 and 28, will thus be enabled to have a pleasant time in Portland on their way and impart good cheer to others. The new Baptist church at The Dalles will be dedicated and a minister ordained to take charge of it, at the association.

COAT OF PAINT NEEDED.—One of the evening contemporaries states that the railroad ferryboat has been overhauled from keelson to cabin, and that the upper works have received a fresh coat of paint. There is no doubt but what the first statement is correct, but as to the "fresh coat of paint," a careful examination of the upper works aforesaid fails to reveal the slightest traces of the artist's brush. While the workmen were engaged in overhauling the craft they might as well have painted the cabin. It is very dingy and stained and needs a new coat bad enough.

BOY ROW.—Two small boys, who live several miles below the city, engaged in an altercation on Tuesday, when one threw a stone which struck the other violently on the side, and inflicted severe injuries. The boy who was struck came to the city yesterday for the purpose of swearing out a complaint against the person who committed the assault. We are unable to state whether or not such complaint was preferred or an arrest made.

EXAMINATION.—J. H. Cutter, who was brought down on the California from Sitka, charged with manufacturing and introducing liquor into an Indian country, will have a preliminary examination to-day before U. S. Commissioner Wilcox.

CHANGED HANDS.—The salmon fishery and canning establishment of G. W. Hume, at Eagle Cliff, W. T., has changed hands, Cutting & Co., of San Francisco, having purchased the entire interest of the above gentleman in the business. Mr. N. W. Tallant will manage the affairs of the new firm. Mr. Hume is residing at Oakland, Cal., and is a member of the firm of Vimont, Hughes & Co., stock brokers, San Francisco.

OVERHAULING THE LINE.—Mr. John Crotch, general repairer for the W. U. T. Co., accompanied by his assistant, is now engaged in giving the line a thorough overhauling between this city and Roseburg. New poles will be set wherever necessary, old, defective insulators replaced with new ones, and damaged sections of the wire spliced. In about two weeks it is expected to have the entire line in a No. 1 working order.

SHEEP AND HORSES.—In about two weeks Mr. C. E. Perkins will start from his ranch down on Deer Island with 1,000 head of sheep and six blooded mares for Eastern Oregon. Mr. Perkins proposes to cross the Cascades, providing the snow is not too deep. He will drive the sheep and mares to a ranch about 50 miles from The Dalles, on the Ochoco road.

WEATHER REPORT.—From the records of the U. S. Signal Station of Observation, Portland, Oregon, May 26, 1875:

LET ALL ATTEND.—The committee of arrangements for the Printer's picnic are requested to meet in the composition room of the OREGONIAN office to-day at 4.25 P. M. sharp. A full attendance is desirable as business of great importance is to come before the committee which must be promptly attended to.

GONE TO THE DALLES.—Madame Phelps and her troupe started up the Columbia yesterday morning. Performances will be given at the Dalles this and to-morrow evening. On Saturday the troupe will return as far as Vancouver, where a performance will be given in the evening.

COMING.—Hon. A. C. Barstow, one of the Indian commissioners, is now in San Francisco, and may be expected to arrive here on the next steamer. He will come for the purpose of opening bids for the Indian department.

How mortifying it must be to the multitude of people who have been pluming themselves on always taking "whisky straight," to find their beverage has all been "crooked!"

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Within the past few days Hacheney & Stomme, the popular grocers, have purchased a large bankrupt stock of groceries in excellent condition, which they can offer below the usual prices. Here is a capital opportunity to lay in a supply, while you are short of cash and consequently desire to economize.

A bargain—that is exactly what everybody wants. Try DeLashmutt & Oatman. They advertise to-day.

Lay in your winter wood when you can buy it at an advantage. Orders for Highland ash and oak wood of excellent quality can be sent to the Portland woodyard or the local depots mentioned in the ad. elsewhere.

"Only a dollar" is the way they charge on the mail steamer Favorite for passage from Olympia or Tacoma to Victoria. As this is a good time to go abroad for pleasure or profit, it would be well to take a few dollars' worth of traveling on the Favorite. See ad.

He means just what he says. VanFridagh is selling out at cost his large and fine stock of dress goods, notions and millinery. The ladies will never have such a chance again. Call early.

Elsewhere is published figures showing the sales of various sewing machines. The Singer, we observe, leads all others. Mr. Parsons, at the agency, 105 Third street, can tell you all about these things. At all events, look over the figures.

Gentlemen who desire an excellent fitting suit of the latest style and the best goods, are informed that Neimeyer & Utter can supply their wants. These gentlemen have the reputation of turning out nothing but the very best in respect to fit and quality of goods. The prices range low and all orders are filled at the time agreed upon.

PICNICS.

The Red Men have positively determined to hold their annual picnic and excursion next Wednesday, when the original programme, as announced, will be carried out. Extended mention will be timely made of the forthcoming event.

To-day, if the urbane weather clerk will smile his blandest smile, the members of the Portland Hibernian Benevolent Society propose to give a grand basket picnic at East Portland Park. The entire success of the affair will depend upon good weather, and, with that vouchsafed, there can be no failure. For some days the several committees have been industriously engaged in working up all the necessary details of arrangements, and nothing has been omitted which can in the remotest manner contribute to the success of the affair. This old and sterling organization, which includes in the limits of its membership a large number of our esteemed Irish citizens, enjoys an enviable reputation for being successful in all its undertakings—picnics not excepted—and if the affair does not prove all that can be desired, the fault will rest with the weather clerk. At 9 o'clock this forenoon the members will assemble at their hall and, headed by the band, soon after take up their line of march for the park. Arriving there, a variety of pleasures and amusing games will be inaugurated: ladies' target shooting, dancing, races of various kinds, leaping, croquet playing, foot-ball, etc. At 4 o'clock there will be a balloon ascension, and in the evening a display of fireworks. To those who attend a day of rare sport is promised.

ORTHOGRAPHICAL.

Buchstabirfleber is the Dutch for the mania spellendi.

Questions of the day—one l or two? z, s or c? able or ible? ei in or ie out?

The spelling mania is raging. Parties of four in the cars turn two seats facing each other and spell.

Why not get up pronouncing contests? Many persons spell correctly who cannot pronounce phthrough.

Josh Billings never attends a "spelling bee." He says they are "frods," and only fit "tew amoze ignerent foakes."

An exchange tells of a girl who jilted her young man because he was impudent enough to put four "e's" in "precede."

The lawyers and ministers of Nevada City have been challenged to spell against the doctors and dentists of Grass Valley.

Cerasmic, ptysmagog, tachygraphy, giaour, tael, eyot, fichus, euchymy and demoniacal played smash with the last Boston spelling match.

When you are given a word to spell, go through it at one jump. Don't go feeling along like a cautious boy over a patch of thin ice, or down you will go, for sure.

MILITARY NOTES.

The Spirit of the West of May 22d contains the following:

Capt. Perry took command on Thursday morning.

A general court-martial was convened at the garrison on Wednesday.

The escort that accompanied the paymaster to Colville has returned.

Company M, 1st cavalry, left on Monday for Colville. A few of Co. E, 21st infantry, will remain at Colville to assist Co. M to garrison the post until the recruits join that company from the East.

McGintee, the prisoner whom Sergeant Gibney brought to the garrison from Boise a few days since, escaped from the sentinel in charge on Friday last. The sentinel was not punished, in consequence of the kind interference of Capt. Harris.

FOUND.—On First street, between Morrison and Alder, No. 105, the place where watches, clocks and jewelry can be bought at reasonable prices, and where watch repairing is done at a lower price than at any other establishment in this city. Call on W. Friedlander.

BRIEF NOTES.

The rivers are rising again.

Gone to sea—the bark Clifton.

The water is still rising slowly at Wallula.

Salmon fisheries are running to their fullest capacity.

The general rush to-day will be East Portlandward.

There is a letter in this office for "W.," who advertised recently.

A fine uniform has just been received by the Arcadian base ball club.

Three hundred and fifty tons of freight were brought up on the Ajax.

The funeral of the late P. Fleurot took place yesterday morning.

One solitary drunk was disposed of in police court yesterday morning.

The steamer Ajax will sail for San Francisco this evening at 6 o'clock.

The railroad ferry commenced to make regular trips yesterday morning.

The insane inmate who escaped from the asylum a few days ago, has been recaptured.

The west side telegraph line between Portland and St. Joe, is in capital working order.

Capt. Evan Miles, of Fort Colville, has been ordered to Sacramento for recruiting service.

The lots on the southwest corner of Sixth and Alder have been enclosed for a lumber yard.

A big game of base ball at Salem to-morrow afternoon between the Aldine and College clubs.

A large number of emigrants went up to Oregon City yesterday afternoon on the E. N. Cooke.

It is quite probable that the hull of the Senator will be repaired and converted into a barge.

Brick masons have commenced work on McCraken's new building on North Front street.

The vessels Carn Tual and Rival arrived here yesterday from Astoria in tow of the Annie Stewart.

The county road leading south of the city, parallel with the macadamized road, is being improved.

The only spelling contest in prospective is the one to take place at the printers' picnic next week.

C. A. M. Myers is in the city after an absence of many months at Eagle cliff. He is looking well.

Steam was raised a few days ago at the Albina Iron Works. Operations will commence in a few days.

The telegraph line beyond Kalama has been prostrated since Tuesday. High water is supposed to be the cause.

H. W. Clinger has recently been appointed policeman by the police commissioners, in place of J. K. Mercer, removed.

The covers of the cisterns on Second street at the intersections of Alder and Main streets, are to be covered in a substantial manner.

Reports were in circulation yesterday morning that two more bodies had been recovered from the river. The report is wholly without foundation.

Three steamers now in port, Ajax, Gussie Telfair and California. An equal number of sailing vessels are also in port: the Carn Tual, City of Vienna and Rival.

A fellow who is evidently prejudiced against the softer sex, has been heard to declare that women are not talkative; they only want two words in the discussion—the first and the last.

Now that the little house, which has occupied a pretty good share of Sixth street opposite the custom house for a long time, has been sold, an opening of the street at that particular point will be in order.

Parties living in the neighborhood of Mt. Tabor report that a terrible hail storm visited that section yesterday afternoon, beating down the grass and cutting up young vegetables, besides doing much other damage.

The case now in progress in the U. S. district court between the W. R. T. Co. and O. S. N. Co., relative to the collision of the Emma Hayward and Beaver, promises to drag its slow length along for some days to come.

The foundation of Strowbridge's new brick, Yamhill and First streets, will be laid this week. The building has been let, we learn, to a manufacturing company, who will use the prospective edifice for warerooms.

Third street is to have a sidewalk and plank road laid on it from North First street to North Fourth street. Yesterday the street committee received bids and awarded the contract for that portion between Second and Fourth streets to P. G. Baker, and that between First and Second to W. H. Butts.

The peculiar finish of the Elmwood collar makes it thoroughly perspiration-proof. All first-class furnishing stores sell them.

SOMETHING NEW.

The new style of promenade photographs. These beautiful pictures are now made at Boscht & Megler's new rooms, Nos. 127 and 129, First street. Call and examine them.

The Postoffice has not been removed yet, nor has that bridge across the Wallamet come to the surface, but it is a positive fact that BECK & WALDMAN have the largest and best assortment of Spring and Summer Clothing, which they are offering to the public at exceedingly low prices. They continue to keep a full line of Youth's Clothing, and parents should bear this in mind when they desire to treat "their darling boy" to a new suit.

The pleasant expression on the faces of those making their exit from the Clothing Establishment of JOS. KOHN, opposite the National Bank, is an indication that they have been treated well by the proprietor. Kohn knows what his customers want and he invariably makes it a point to "fill the bill." His Stock of Clothing, Furnishing Goods, etc., is complete and the prices are regulated to suit all classes.

At The GREAT EASTERN CLOTHING STORE they are offering the finest Clothing to be found in the city, at prices that defy competition. There you can select from the latest styles which are laid in upon the arrival of every steamer from San Francisco. A full line of Furnishing Goods, Youths' Suits, Valises and Trunks constantly on hand. Observe the sign, "Great Eastern Clothing Store." W. HARRIS, Proprietor, 125 First street.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Ladies who wish to have their own hair braided, made into switches, or worked up into any kind of ornamental work for use or preservation, will do well to call on or send to Mrs. Larson, on Ninth street, between C and D. She does all such work very neatly and upon reasonable terms. a28d1m

DECORATION CEREMONIES.

According to established custom with the members of the Grand Army of the Republic, the beautiful and impressive ceremonies of Decoration Day will be observed next Saturday afternoon at Lone Fir Cemetery. At 1 o'clock the members of that organization will assemble at their hall, and at 2 o'clock will form in procession. Preceded by music the procession will march to the cemetery, on the east side of the river, where the ceremonies are to take place. While the procession is filing through the cemetery a number of army calls will be sounded on the bugle. Reaching the graves which are to be decorated, the procession will halt and form a hollow square. Appropriate music will be discoursed by the Northwestern Band, after which the Amphion Quartette Club will render the "Soldier's Decoration Hymn." Prayer will be offered by Rev. T. L. Eliot, when a "Response" will be rendered by the Amphion Club. Post Commander W. S. Newbury will then deliver a few remarks appropriate to the occasion. The band will render a subdued refrain, after which Comrade Judge J. H. Woodward will make a few remarks. Comrade Chris. P. Yates will then step forward and repeat a few appropriate words. Song by the Amphion Club will follow, when Comrades G. C. Sears and V. B. DeLashmutt will each make a few appropriate remarks. The ceremony of decorating the graves of the dead will conclude the exercises. At the close of the ceremonies, the procession will reform and march back to the city and then disband. A cordial invitation has been extended the various military organizations of the city to join the procession and participate in the ceremonies of the day.

Gen. Howard will deliver the address at the court house in the evening, commencing at 7:30 o'clock. In the evening the exercises will consist of music by the band, the "Rock of Liberty," by a quartette club, the oration by Gen. Howard on the subject: "Reasons in favor of memorials of the rebellion, objections answered, war is sometimes right, and why;" the "Star Spangled Banner," by the quartette club, and music by the band. A cordial invitation is extended the public to attend the ceremonies and exercises of the day.

OREGON.

J. O. Spencer, of Clatsop county, has been appointed a notary public.

A force of workmen commenced on Monday last tearing down the old buildings on the Fair grounds of State Agricultural Society, preparatory to building new ones.

A gentleman who has just come down from St. Jo on the west-side road, informs us that the farmers are all done their spring planting. The crops that are above ground look unusually promising.

A correspondent writes the Statesman from Jefferson, under date of the 25th inst., saying: "Stone-masons are busily engaged on the foundation wall of Corbitt & Macleay's new warehouse. The grangers are rustling around getting in shape to commence operations on their house as soon as possible. A meeting of the stockholders will be held on Saturday, the 29th inst., to elect directors. The storage and handling of grain will doubtless be cheap in Jefferson this fall, if the number of warehouses in that lively burg is any indication of the fact.

A Brain-Destroying Malady.

That insomnia, or inability to sleep, has become very prevalent of late years, is sufficiently evidenced by the fact that numberless remedies have been introduced within the last decade specially intended for its cure, and that new sedatives are continually cropping up. But no medicinal agent has so widely and clearly established its claims as a genuine soporific as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. That it removes this brain-destroying inability far more efficiently than the bromides, chlorals and valerianates in use, is not to be wondered at when we consider that such drugs act only on the brain, which is not the source of the evil, while the Bitters rectify the alimentary disturbances which originates it. It is admitted by physicians that dyspepsia and non-assimilation of the food produce sleeplessness. The Bitters overcome these obstacles to repose as well as those urinary troubles which are also said to interfere with it. A wineglassful or two of this wholesome sedative invigorant at bed time rarely fails to induce tranquil repose.

IMPORTANT.—Indorsed by the Medical profession. DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS cures Coughs, Colds, Consumption, and all diseases of the Throat and Chest. DR. TOWNSLEY'S TOOTHACHE ANODYNE cures in one MINUTE.

The Question Settled.—Those eminent men, Dr. Jas. Clark, Physician to Queen Victoria, and Dr. Hughes Bennett, say that consumption can be cured. Dr. Wistar knew this when he discovered his now widely-known BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY, and experience has proved the correctness of his opinion.

FEMALE FIENDS.

[illegible] OF CIVILIZATION IN THE WEST

Full particulars of the brutal outrage committed by "respectable ladies" of Wil[illegible] Iowa, a brief sketch of which was given by telegraph show that the affair was more horrible than the correspondents made out. The victim was a girl of only seventeen years of age, had lost her mother early in life, and had been brought up by two step-mothers. Rather handsome and intelligent, she had gone, so the local papers say, pretty far in the direction of the bad, had summarily ejected her step-mother from the house, and there received visits from half a dozen of the young gentlemen of the town. The house was in a respectable neighborhood, and it seems that these proceedings roused the indignation of the "ladies" of the town. Without appealing to the law for redress for any damages the poor unfortunate girl had inflicted upon them, they formed themselves into a mob, compared with which a band of bacchanals would have been eminently respectable, and, armed with a bucket of tar and a pillow of feathers, surrounded the house. The Davenport Gazette describes what follows:

"They tried the doors, and all were locked. In the yard were several large iron bolts, such as are used in fastening timbers of bridges. The ladies seized the bolts, and with them smashed the windows of the lighted room, sash and all. The crash aroused the whole neighborhood, and soon there was excitement enough in the whole vicinity, which was not lessened at all by the shrieks of the girl within, as the now impetuous assailants hurled the bars at other windows. Strange to say no crowds of men rushed to the besieged mansion bent on vengeance, and determined not to allow the object of their hatred to escape by flight, the five leaders never thought of breaking open the doors, but these women climbed through the windows, and came upon the party within like avenging furies."

There were four young men and the girl in the room. The cowardly fellows ran off and left the child to the tender mercies of the mob, who without more ado emptied the tar over her, and proceeded to feather her as usual. The unfortunate creature was turned out of the house and but for the compassion of one young man who was not afraid of facing public sentiment, and who gave up his room to her, would have been left to sleep in the street. Can anything more shameful be told? As usual, we are told "public opinion is divided on the subject." This affair only adds another illustration to the many of the adage "A mob of women is a mob of demons."—Chicago Tribune.

A NEW VENICE.

Mr Frederick A Johnson has addressed a letter to the St. Louis Trade Journal, warmly endorsing the opinion that a great city is sure to spring up in the Balize at the head of Eads' jetties, and gives the following as some of the reasons why this city will be a necessity: "The very building of the jetties will give employment to numerous people of all classes, from laborers up. Saloons, boarding-houses, billiard rooms, stores, and many other classes of business in a small way, will form the nucleus of a city, and, upon the completion of the labors of Captain Eads, warehouses will be erected, and elevators, and ships will discharge and load at the new city rather than stand the outrageous charges incidental to ascending the river to New Orleans. This would also necessitate a custom house and other public offices at this contemplated city. If we look at the items of expense on a vessel of 1,116 tons from the Gulf to New Orleans and back, we may depend upon it that she will, when possible, make the jetty or city thereat the termination of her voyage, thereby making a total saving of $2,500."

The St. Louis Democrat makes the following comments on the coming city: All who feel disposed to laugh at the proposition to build the "City of Eads" have the unqualified permission of the Democrat to do so. But all are begged to remember that "those laugh best who laugh last." The city of New Orleans boasts very justly of the salubrity of the magnificent "gulf breeze." The City of Eads will be located on the threshold of this gulf, while New Orleans is 120 miles inland. New Orleans is surrounded by swamps, in fact it is a swamp itself. The City of Eads will be built upon the firm land of South Pass, free from the malarious influences of swamps. It will have broad and beautiful streets paved with the shells of the gulf, and shaded by the magnificent magnolia and superb oleander. Its grade will be established sufficiently high to insure a good drainage, and there is positively no reason why it may not be made one of the most attractive cities of the world.

AN ATTRACTIVE EXCURSION

It will be a matter of interest to many of our readers among both clergy and laity to learn that an excursion is being organized to the Mediterranean, the Holy Land, Egypt, the Crimea, Greece and intermediate points of interest. For the purpose a first-class steamship, the Morro Castle, has been secured, thoroughly equipped and capable of accommodating at least one hundred and fifty cabin passengers. The steamer, which will be provided with every comfort, and will have an experienced physician on board, will leave New York about the first of June, and will visit the Azores, Cadiz, Gibralter, Marseilles, Genoa, Leghorn, Naples, Athens, Smyrna, on the way to the Holy Land. It is expected the excursionists will be in Marseilles about July 4th, Naples, August 4th, Constantinople August 20th, Joppa, Sept. 4th, Alexandria Sept. 20th, Gibraltar, Oct 10th, returning to New York Nov 10th, after an absence of about five months, and it is believed that in no other way can so much of interest be seen and enjoyed with so little fatigue and annoyance and at so small a cost. We understand that the price of passage for the trip is fixed at fifteen hundred dollars currency, and that five dollars per day in gold is a fair calculation to make for all traveling expenses on shore, should passengers leave the steamer for excursions not laid down in the programme. Articles of interest or curiosity purchased by the passengers may be brought home on the steamer free of charge. The excursion will be conducted by George F. Duncan, Esq. of this city, whose excursion with the Quaker City in 1867 was so satisfactory to all who participated in it. Those who wish to enjoy the delights of travel without its burdens and responsibilities have now an opportunity of which they should avail. They may be sure of select and genial companionship and of every care and generous sympathy in case of sickness.—N. Y. Christian Intelligencer.

In the case of Alex S Hughes et al. vs Josiah Gellerson et al at Seattle Judge Lewis gave his decision that no person has a right to obstruct or divert the water of a river from flowing in its natural channel or to turn all the water of a river into one of two channels but if a breach is made so that the water escapes out of one of such channels into the other, such breach may be repaired.

The local finances are undisturbed by any important event so far during the week.

Mail advices from San Francisco indicate a gloomy feeling prevailing in California street upon the rumor becoming circulated that Wm C Ralston president of the Bank of California had made an assignment of his property. There were various circumstances mentioned to give color to the rumor, such as the transfer of Ralston's interest in the Palace Hotel and adjacent property, the purchase of the Crown Point mine from Hayward and also of Baldwin's interest in Ophir, the notes of which were [illegible], and a large sale of Spring Valley Water stock in which Ralston is said to be interested. A reporter of the B[illegible] interviewed Mr Ralston with reference to these and kindred statements and was informed that there was no truth in any of them affecting his credit. But these statements were skillfully grouped together in such a way as to deepen the color of the rumor, and the parties set it afloat at just the right time to give it the most effect, and for a portion of the afternoon of last Thursday matters there wore the appearance of a pretty large funeral, but happily the prompt denial of the rumor through the press restored cheerfulness in a few hours.

The proposition of the Western Union Telegraph Co to borrow $1,000,000, the bids for which were opened and rejected in New York yesterday was for the purpose of replacing the Company's bonds for $1 418 960, which will mature on the 1st of November. The proposals required that two millions be taken in bonds of $1 000 each and both principal and interest are to be paid in gold coin, the latter at the rate of [illegible] per cent per annum. No bids were to be entertained below 9[illegible] and accrued interest.

The demand for loanable funds in our State at present is generally reported dull and outside parties are apparently losing control of the market in this respect. Rates however are not materially lower than have been current for three months past but the supply of capital is much better than it was two months since. The increase will place business men in a better condition to begin the trade of the fall season immediately after the harvest. Reports are abroad that some important loans for this market have been secured recently in San Francisco on favorable terms.

Grain and Provision Reports

Chicago elevators at the commencement of business on Monday 10th inst. contained 1 451 [illegible] bushels of wheat 618 037 bushels of corn 620 164 bushels of oats [illegible] bushels of rye and 1 076 bushels of barley making a grand total of 8 368 8[illegible] bushels against 7 581,520 bushels one week before and 5,269 589 bushels at the same period last year.

Milwaukee warehouses at the close of business on Saturday May 8th contained 1 340 672 bushels of wheat 49 725 bushels of corn 85 275 bushels of oats 1 8[illegible]7 bushels of rye 21 853 bushels of barley and 18 098 bushels malt.

Below will be found the amount of grain in sight in the States and Canada, May 1, 1875: Wheat 10 818 105 bushels corn 9 253 20[illegible] bushels oats 2 2[illegible]1 005 bushels, rye 91 872 bushels, barley 1 6[illegible]000 bushels.

The exports from the leading seaboard ports during the week ending May 19th include 2 998 barrels of pork 800 712 pounds of lard 5 367 605 pounds of bacon 75 043 barrels of flour, 185 610 bushels of wheat 383 891 bushels of corn 10 730 bushels of rye.

Domestic Produce

There are but few features of a local character in this department of trade to-day. Wheat remains dull, and we look for no further transactions of moment in that cereal until after or at least about harvest. The telegram announcing the prediction of the Mark Lane Express (the mouthpiece of England on such subjects) that low rates must be of short duration will strengthen the position of holders and shippers and will also be little inclined to advance rates here until the markets of the Old World show some disposition of an upward tendency from the reported drawbacks to the growing crops. This tendency is not yet to be seen and hence our market is unaffected by the latest news.

Aside from wheat there is a fair demand for good brands of flour for shipment and the home trade. Stocks here are not very large. Oats are reported by private advices to be duller in San Francisco but press telegrams report no change. Provisions are not quite so buoyant under advices from below. Eggs, however, are firm at 15 cents ₱ dozen, and the possibility of an advance fair. Potatoes, as will be seen by the dispatches are away up in San Francisco. Our market contains but few lots which are jobbing to-day at $1 25@1 50 per bushel. There is nothing now in the wool market to-day. The receipts are very light and transactions though rarely made are generally on the basis of [illegible]c per lb for good lots.

Their effects abundantly show how much they excel all other Pills. They are safe and pleasant to take but powerful to cure. They purge out the foul humors of the blood; they stimulate the sluggish or disordered organ into action, and they impart health and tone to the whole being. They cure not only the every day complaints of every body but formidable and dangerous diseases. Most skillful physicians most eminent clergymen and our best citizens send certificates of cures performed and of great benefits they have derived from these Pills. They are the safest and best physic for children because mild as well as effectual. Being sugar coated they are easy to take and being purely vegetable they are entirely harmless.

Ayer's Ague Cure,

FOR THE SPEEDY RELIEF OF

Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c, and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons.

Has been widely used during the last twenty five years in the treatment of these distressing diseases and with such unvarying success that it has gained the reputation of being infallible. The shakes or chills once broken by it do not return until the disease is contracted again. This has made it an accepted remedy and trusted specific for the Fever and Ague of the West and the Chills and Fever of the South.

Ayer's Ague Cure eradicates the noxious poison from the system and leaves the patient as well as before the attack. It thoroughly expels the disease so that no Liver Complaints Rheumatism Neuralgia Dysentery or Debility follow the cure. Indeed where Disorders of the Liver and Bowels have occurred from Miasmatic Poison it removes the cause of them and they disappear. Not only is it an effectual cure but if taken occasionally by patients exposed to malaria it will expel the poison and protect them from attack. Travelers and temporary residents in Fever and Ague localities are thus enabled to defy the disease. The General Debility which is so apt to ensue from continued exposure to Malaria and Miasm has no speedier remedy.

For Liver Complaints it is an excellent remedy.
